A

Claims 13-16 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

Claim 13, in reciting the device, fails to sufficiently interconnect and/or relatively position the housing and the suspended element, and as a result, the claim is confusing and unclear as to the structure of the device. Such relative location between the housing and the suspended element must be set forth in order to clearly and positively define the invention.

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 1,2,7,10 and 17 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by either Bell or Liao.

Both Bell (fig. 5) and Liao (fig. 1) show structure as claimed, including a suspended element 1,18, respectively coupled to a flexible extension member 30 of Bell, 10 (and/or handle straps) of Liao, which are coupled to the seat system. Note that both have clamping means for securing to tubes of the headrest.

While the function of applicants suspended vibration absorbing system is different than the prior art, there is no defining structure set forth in the above claims to sufficiently define the tuned vibration absorber and differentiate thereover, and as such, the structural elements found in the claims are met by the prior art to Bell and Liao.

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claim 9 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over either Bell or Liao.

Whether the flexible extension member and suspended element are integrally formed is a matter of design choice, as is the nature of the attachment of the seat system mechanism.

Claims 3-6,8,11,12, and 18-20 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

Claims 13-16 would be allowable if rewritten or amended to overcome the rejection(s) under 35 U.S.C. 112, 2nd paragraph, set forth in this Office action.

Applicant's arguments filed June 15, 2005 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.

Contrary to applicant's arguments, the limitations inserted into the claims do not define over the art of record. The phrase is not structurally limiting and provides only a functional description, which is given little patentable weight in an article claim, especially when a 102 reference has been applied, and therefore is There is no structure in the rejected claims to define over the structure found in the Bell and Liao references, and as the prior art discloses every element in the claim, the rejection has been maintained.

THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
